Students enrolled in HMH interventions improved twice as much as students in other programs.

RESEARCH THAT DRIVES INNOVATION

Research is at the heart of everything we do. We invest in research to continually evolve—to understand the needs of today's teachers and learners and adapt to meet those needs every step of the way. We collect data, analyze, identify challenges, develop solutions, measure and improve every program, and fine-tune every practice.

HMH® delivers the highest-quality programs and services founded upon efficacy and evidence:

FOUNDATIONAL & EXPLORATORY RESEARCH

We review content and consult with experts, practitioners, parents, and policymakers to identify problems and establish rationales for further research.

DEVELOPMENTAL RESEARCH

Extensive program testing with classes and pilot testing in schools leads to further refinement as part of the development process.

USER RESEARCH

We conduct ongoing research of users' expectations, behaviors, and needs to continually inform HMH products to best benefit student and teacher users.

EFFICACY RESEARCH

We measure the effectiveness of our solutions in classrooms across a variety of settings with diverse student populations, looking at what works for whom and under what conditions.

MATH

DEVELOP CONFIDENT CRITICAL THINKERS AND PROBLEM SOLVERS

From building foundations in basic mathematics to creating learning progressions that lead to success in algebra and higher math, we are dedicated to providing rigorous and equitable learning to ensure student growth.

Cultivating the next generation of math enthusiasts starts with the power of “I can.” From the earliest grades, students learn, explore, and fall in love with numeracy because at HMH we push beyond proficiency to inspire genuine curiosity, problem solving, and lifelong learning.

Instructional models encourage students to first build conceptual understanding—developing student reasoning—before focusing on procedural fluency.

For students who need extra support, targeted intervention accelerates math achievement using explicit instruction and growth mindset strategies.

We invest equally in teacher support—providing access to the highest-quality instructional and professional resources, data, and know-how to help teachers address the needs of every student in the math classroom.
